Salem District Crippled by Blizzard

By RALPH FRATILA

The blizzard that raged over the Salem area and the rest of Ohio Sunday continued unabated today, with an additional accumulation of three to six inches of snow by tonight expected to aggravate already chaotic condition.

The most severe storm of the winter has resulted in the closure of all district schools, some factories and scores of business places.

Although the main highways are open, only single lane traffic is being maintained in some as county and state highway crews fight a stubborn battle against recurring drifts.

Numerous secondary roads are impassable, and patrolmen of the Lisbon and Canfield barracks have broadcast warnings to residents to keep off the highways unless travel is imperative.

Attendants at the Salem sewage disposal plant estimated that about 10 inches of snow fell up to 10 a.m. today. The snow was accompanied by sub-freezing temperatures which skidded to a low of 9 at 7 last night.

The mercury stood at 12 degrees in the city at 7 a.m. today.

Schools closed in the area are

Factories in Salem and surrounding communities are operating with only partial forces, and the outlook for tomorrow is uncertain.

Officials of the Deming Co. report 75 per cent of their employees reported for work today, and the plant will attempt to resume normal operations tomorrow.

Mullins Manufacturing Corp. announced it would close at 11 a.m. today. Operating with short crews, the industry said it hopes to resume full operation, Tuesday. Workers will be notified via radio if operations are suspended tomorrow, the firm reported.

The E. W. Bliss Co. and Salem China Co. reported only 50 per cent of their workers showed up this morning. The Eljer Co. notified its foundry employees not to report for work this morning. The company reports less than 50 per cent of its entire work force arrived.

In Salem, Mayor Dean B. Cramer said partial snow removal crews worked seven hours Sunday, and at midnight the entire complement was called out and will remain on the job until all streets are open.

The mayor, on the job himself, expects all streets to be open by this afternoon.

County highway department crews were out in full force workers reported they were plowing snow depths up to 15 inches.

City and county workers were severely hampered in clearing away the snow with any lasting effect. Winds whistling in gusts of anywhere from 20 to 50 miles per hour quickly redistributed the powdery blanket, often right back on the pavement.

Despite the high winds, both the Ohio Edison Co. and the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. reported no undue trouble with power cables or telephone lines.

Countless social and business functions have been canceled. Kent State Academic Center classes scheduled for tonight have been called off, as have all activities at the YWCA.

The Salem Public Library is closed, and both the Salem City Hospital and Central Clinic are operating with reduced staffs. The Central Clinic reported it is functioning under emergency measures because of the absenteeism among its staff.

The City Hospital reported seven of its personnel absent. Out-of-town employees who arrived for work this morning will sleep at the Nursing Home tonight, administrator Robert F. Rice said.

Numerous city stores and business places are open with skeleton crews and resigned to doing a meager business today. Some stores failed to open.

At the County Courthouse in Lisbon, only 20 employees had arrived for work by 11 a.m. Offices which were able to open are clerk of courts, recorders, auditor, engineer, treasurer, probate court, health department, and sheriff.

Offices closed are both common pleas courts, juvenile court, tuberculosis department, county schools, prosecutor, commissioners and tax map.

Winter's Worst Storm Buries All Of Eastern U.S.

A massive snowstorm, described by the Weather Bureau as the winter's worst, snarled across the eastern United States today.

Numerous highways were blocked, hundreds of motorists stranded and communities isolated as gale-force winds piled the snow into drifts as much as 10 feet deep.

From two to five inches of snow has fallen on greater New York and up to six inches were expected before the storm blows out to sea this afternoon.

The Weather Bureau in Washington issued a heavy snow warning for New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and all but the northern part of New England.

Western Pennsylvania received from 5 to 10 inches of snow which began falling Sunday afternoon and was still coming down Monday morning.

Huge snow drifts were piled up by 50-mile-an-hour winds in central Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

The Weather Bureau urged motorists in the Midwest and East to stay off the highways in storm areas or run the risk of becoming snowbound in near-zero weather.

That fate already has befallen hundreds of motorists.

In Illinois, some 500 motorists became overnight guests of the 1,200 citizens of Neoga, a farm community which opened the local American Legion hall and Masonic Temple to accommodate stranded travelers.

In Indiana and Ohio, other hundreds of motorists abandoned autos on snow clogged highways and sought shelter at service stations, road houses

'Big Snow' Held Salem In Grip 13 Years Ago

It was 13 years ago — plus about six weeks — when the Big Snow of 1950 hit Salem and the rest of Ohio as well.

The Salem News, in its edition of Friday, Nov. 24, 1950, wrote:

"Weathermen were keeping a watchful eye on their record books today as Salem's biggest snowfall in the past six years so far, accompanied by bitter cold, whipped through the district."

The temperature that day was near zero and 4.5 inches of snow lay on the ground.

But that was only the beginning. The next day, Saturday, Nov. 25, the district was paralyzed by a raging blizzard. The snow fell all night long and when people awoke Saturday morning all were snow-bound.

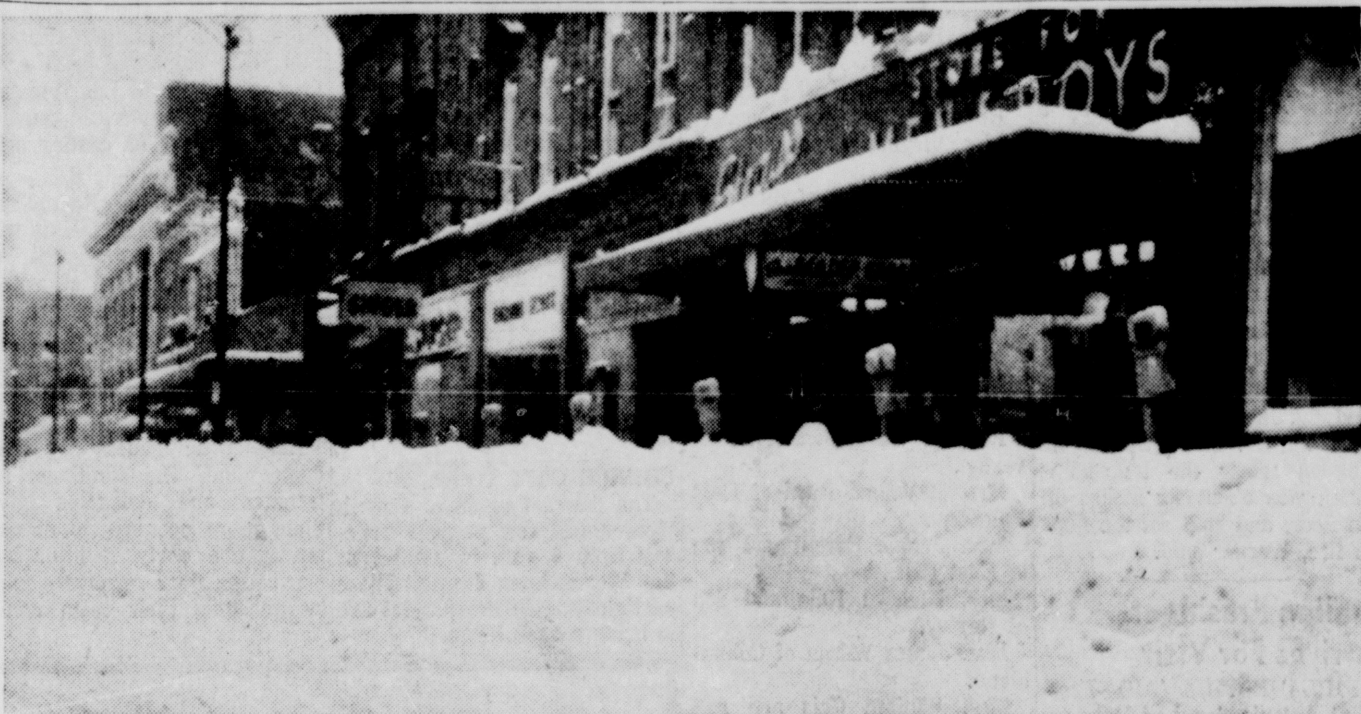

Streets and highways were closed and hardy souls walked to work.

A state of emergency was declared by the late Harry M. Vincent, then mayor. The city was isolated. Traffic was at a standstill. The Lape and Metzger hotels were crowded with stranded families, some of them sleeping in the lobbies.

The city had one snowplow at the time and it was stuck at the municipal garage and a Bliss Co. bulldozer was utilized to plow open downtown State St. but this took hours of painstaking work.

The Red Cross chapter housed and fed 100 stranded persons at

Fire Damages Rogers School

4-Room Structure Comparatively New

The weather was indirectly responsible for a fire in Rogers Sunday which destroyed a four-room addition to Rogers School.

Fire Chief Harley Rice of the Rogers Volunteer Fire Department attributed the blaze to faulty heating equipment.

Mrs. Floyd Kunkle of Rogers, a custodian at the school, said she saw smoke rising from the building when she entered the structure at 6:30 p.m. to check the furnace but did not see any fire. She had previously gone to the building at noon to stoke the furnace.

She then called Dr. George Van Horne, executive head of the Beaver Local Schools, who rushed to the building, along with a maintenance man.

The men were able to clear smoke out of the building enough to get inside and look for the cause of the smoke. They discovered a smoldering blaze in a storage room and

Smoker on Center Stage

Public's Reaction to Federal Report Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American smoker—still lingering over the grim facts of a federal report branding cigarettes a health hazard—is center stage to a big audience this week.

Legislators, investors, tobacco growers, cigarette manufacturers, legal and health authorities want to know first and foremost: Will he quit or not? Will he cut down? What will happen to cigarette sales?

Just how loud will the public reaction to the federal report be?

On those questions hinge a number of important decisions in coming days.

The tobacco companies have been invited to meet with the Television Code Review Board in Miami Beach Jan. 22-23. Subject: The federal report and what it means to cigarette advertising on television.

The American Cancer Society's board of directors meets this month to assess educational campaigns against cigarette smoking, called by the federal report the major cause of lung cancer, the leading fatal malignancy in men.

Several bills will be introduced designed to better arm federal agencies to regulate the sale and advertising of cigarettes and to force the cautionary labeling of cigarettes as potentially hazardous.

Federal courts may be the scene of another test of the scientific report. Will it encourage further damage suits against tobacco companies by lung cancer victims? Will it improve their chance of collecting?

The new report—14 months in the making — cited cigarette smoking as the major cause of lung cancer, a significant cause of cancer of the larynx, and associated it with a number of other cancers from those of the oral cavity to the bladder.

And there was an association—but not yet a proof of cause—between cigarettes and heart and blood vessel disease, and peptic ulcers.

So strong is the evidence of health hazard, the committee said, that it called for corrective action.

The surgeon general's Advisory Committee on Smoking and Health surprised most observers with the strength of its denunciation of cigarette smoking. Even an official of the American Cancer Society, long an enemy of cigarettes, said he was pleasantly surprised by the forthrightness of the report.

To Set Up Joint Authority

U.S., Panama Agree to OAS Peace Effort

PANAMA AP)—The United States and Panama agreed today to set up a joint authority with the Organization of American States to try to keep peace along the riot - bloodied Canal Zone border, diplomatic sources reported.

The five-man delegation from the OAS arranged for a final meeting today to settle technical details for the peace authority proposed by Argentina. Informants said the United States and Panama would each have one military man and civilian on the authority, with a neutral OAS representative as chairman. Alfredo Vazquez 'caricosa, Colombian ambassador to the OAS, has been proposed, they added.

Diplomatic sources said it had not been decided whether the peace-keeping group would use military or civilian forces to police the border area. It was said earlier that troops from both the United States and Panama might make up the patrols.

Edwin M. Martin, U.S. assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, and secretary of the Army Cyrus R. Vance, agreed to a Panamanian government request to remain here for a possible meeting today with Panama officials.

There was more violence Sunday in Colon, the Panamanian city on the Caribbean side of the canal. A Panamanian National Guardsman was killed and two others were wounded, bringing to 24 the death toll since a flag-raising incident in the Canal Zone Thursday set off the fighting. Three of the dead were U.S. soldiers.

4 Injured In Road Mishaps

Some Accidents Blamed on Weather

A western Pennsylvania motorist was hospitalized and six other persons were treated for minor injuries in four of seven district traffic mishaps early today or over the weekend.

Blizzardy weather was a contributory factor in part of the mishaps, investigated by the Lisbon and Canfield barracks of the State Highway Patrol.

John Lundy, 46, of Darington, Pa., was brought to Salem City Hospital where he is in fairly good condition with lacerations of the forehead and eyebrows suffered in a two-car mishap on Sunday at 12:20 a.m. on Route 7, about two miles north of Rogers. Hurt in the same accident was Mrs. Beverly Stear, 27, of RD 3, Canfield, who received cuts on the forehead. She was treated and released.

The Lisbon Patrol said Lundy pulled out from the stop sign on Route 558 and onto Route 7, into the path of a northbound car driven by Mrs. Stear's husband, Angus Deuane, 29. The Pennsylvania was cited for unsafe operation.

A Columbiana mother and daughter were hurt slightly in another two-car mishap Saturday at 4:10 p.m. on Route 164, about three miles southwest of their town.

Mrs. Jane Unkefer, 33, of RD 2, Columbiana, had contusions and bruises of the left knee and her daughter, Kathy, 8, had a bump on the head. A local physician treated them.

The Patrol said the Unkefer car was struck by another auto driven by Joseph Ehrhardt, 52, of Detroit, who went left of center. After the impact, the local

8 Children, Mother Die In New Jersey Fire

PORT NORRIS, N.J. (AP) — Flames destroyed a two-room frame house, killing Mrs. Virginia Johnson and her eight children Sunday.

The bodies of Mrs. Johnson, 26, and four children were found near a door. The door opened inward and was blocked by a bed.

The dead children were David, 11; Roxanne, 10; Alice Jean, 9; Daniel, 7; Margaret, 6; Virginia, 4; Tracy Lee, 2 and Nicky, 10 months.

Their father, David D. Johnson, was on an oyster boat in the Atlantic Ocean at the time.

State trooper Robert Warner said the fire was started by a wood burner. There was no insulation under the burner, which was about six inches off the floor, and heat set the floor on fire, Warner said.

Italian President Arrives For Visit

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—President Antonio Segni of Italy arrives today on the first stop of a five-day visit to the United States, which will include talks with President Johnson.

Segni will be accompanied by his wife, Laura, and an official party of 35.

Specially-detailed police, FBI agents and other security officers were assigned to guard the 71-year-old Segni. His route from International Airport to a downtown hotel was not disclosed.

Segni will visit Independence Hall and the Liberty Bell before leaving by train for Washington Tuesday.

Dems Take Big Step Toward Solving Convention Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic party has taken a big step toward solving one of its convention problems, that of proportionate representation. But another problem has, if anything, been aggravated.

The party began in 1952 to ignore the fact that some states were growing and others were losing population. The result: Some smaller states had a disproportionately loud voice in the convention.

There were two ways to correct this situation: Take votes away from some states or give votes to others. The first seemed too painful. So Saturday the Democratic National Committee approved a vote allocation formula for the 1964 convention which recognizes both population and zeal for the party—and greatly increases the number of votes to be cast.

But the other problem, size of the convention, is thornier than ever.

To cast the 2,316 votes authorized for the August convention, the committee approved 3,056 delegates and 2,208 alternates. This means that about 5,264 of them will be floating around Atlantic City's mammoth Convention Hall, compared with 4,509 four years ago in Los Angeles. As usual at Democratic conventions, most will be casting only one-half of a vote.

By contrast, the Republican convention in San Francisco will have only 1,308 delegates, to cast a like number of votes. Another 1,308 alternates are authorized, meaning that physical by the GOP convention will be about half as large as the Democratic convalesce.

Democratic leaders say they don't mind. The additional alternates and delegates give them more openings to spread among the party faithful. But convention floor managers may be gnashing their teeth come August.

Here's how the vote allocation works:

Each state will get three convention votes for each electoral vote. Since the Electoral College is based mostly on population, this helps solve the representation problem.

Likewise, each state gets a convention vote for every 100,000 Democratic votes cast in 1960. Thus bigger states with more voters will benefit.

Furthermore, each state voting the Kennedy-Johnson ticket in 1960 will get a bonus of 10 votes.

By and large, the Northeastern industrial states gained the most at the expense of Great Plains, Rocky Mountain and Southern states.

Since the convention as a whole will have 52.2 per cent more votes than in 1960, states which gained more than this are proportionately better off and states which gained less lost ground.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT
Minor Illness Can Be Blessing

"A little learning is a dangerous thing," said Alexander Pope many years ago. Now a Midwest doctor says, "A Little Sickness is Good for You."

Dr. Brandstadt

This is the title of a new book by Dr. H. S. Brandstadt, M.D., who supports his thesis by citing the case of two elderly patients who each got pneumonia in a winter epidemic. They were about the same age, height, weight, and build. Prior to their pneumonia, both were in good health, yet one died a few hours after developing this disease and the other made an uneventful recovery.

WHY DID THESE TWO persons react differently to the same disease? Dr. Brandstadt believes it was because the survivor had all the usual childhood diseases early in life, and a few more thrown in for good measure as an adult. The other patient had been coddled all of his rather inactive life and had experienced remarkably few bouts of illness.

I am not one to advocate being foolhardy, and would certainly not suggest that anyone court "a little sickness" in the form of any of the communicable diseases for which effective immunization is now available. But there are still plenty for which such protection has not been found.

It is possible that a few bouts with the common cold and other diseases give us an ability that we would otherwise lack, to deal with subsequent infections.

THE WORST FEATURE about coddling, however, is the enforced inactivity and the negative outlook on life it engenders.

It is not necessary for us to go out of our way to look for "a little sickness." But if we will not be in shape to handle a big sickness when it comes.

Q—What is the difference between cerebral palsy and infantile paralysis? Both campaigns feature crippled children.

A—The term "cerebral palsy" is applied to a group of paralytic conditions that are present from birth or in early childhood. The cause in many cases is prolonged labor, delay in getting the baby to breathe, and brain damage incurred during delivery.

The underlying cause of these factors, however, is often hard to determine. In other cases the cause may be prematurity or severe hemorrhages of the mother during pregnancy.

The manifestations are varied, and include rigid paralysis or limp paralysis of one or more limbs, or inability to make coordinated movements.

Infantile paralysis or poliomyelitis, on the other hand, is an infection of the spinal cord caused by a virus. It is not congenital but may be acquired at any age and results in a limp or flaccid paralysis of a group of muscles.

When it affects an extremity there is marked wasting of the muscles supplied by the involved nerves. When it affects the diaphragm the victim cannot breathe without the aid of an iron lung.

This and That

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The average person speaks about 25,000 words a day. That doesn't include the telephone conversations of teen-agers.

The parakeet can consume nearly 100 times its own weight in food each year.

The world's heartiest eaters are the Irish. According to United Nations figures, they each, compared to 3,100 calories for Americans.

No man, not even a genius, begins to tap the full potential of his brain. It has been estimated that the human mind could store several hundred memories an hour for a lifetime of 75 years and never show this strain. I forget where I learned this.

The suicide ratio is twice as high in Japan, Hungary, Denmark and Sweden as in the United States.

Our quotable notables: "The best way to get on in the world is to make people believe it's to their advantage to help you" —Jean de la Bruyere.

Single girls, here's your problem in finding a mate during the present Leap Year: There are 2½ million fewer men than women in this country — so some of you have to lose.

Japan, which lost the war, is finding peace pretty wonderful. A survey disclosed 91 per cent of Japanese families had television sets, 70 per cent had electric washing machines, 52 per cent had electric refrigerators, and 60 per cent owned cameras.

On the other hand, in East Germany a woman must show a marriage license in order to buy white shoes. The Communists decreed that only intended brides can buy white shoes which are in short supply because leather, dyes and bleaches must be imported from capitalist countries.

It has been found that time passes about a third faster when you're working than when you're loafing.

Last year the cost of a gallon of gasoline averaged more than 30 cents, including 10.28 cents in taxes. The price 20 years ago averaged 20.43 cents a gallon, including 5.97 cents in taxes.

The American Humane Association reports 26,793 animals appeared in movies or on television last year. In 1950 only 5,300 appeared on camera.

It was Oscar Wilde who observed, "The only thing to do with good advice is to pass it on; it is never of any use to oneself."

History Today

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, Jan. 13, the 13th day of 1964. There are 353 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1898, French novelist Emile Zola published a letter in which he made serious charges against the French government in regard to the Dreyfus case. Zola was fined and sentenced to prison but fled to England.

On this date: In 1733, English colonists reached Charleston, S.C. en route to settle in Georgia.

In 1875, the first dynamo built in the United States was completed at Cornell University.

In 1915, an earthquake in central Italy killed 30,000 persons and destroyed several towns.

In 1932, Italian dictator Benito Mussolini urged all European nations to cancel their World War I debts to the United States.

In 1949, Captain Bill Odom landed at Oakland, Calif., after setting a new trans-Pacific world's record flight for light planes.

Ten years ago—United Mine Workers President John L. Lewis is warned the hard-pressed International Longshoremen's Association to clean house immediately if it wanted further financial aid from Lewis' union.

Five years ago—The Belgian government announced measures aimed at organizing the Congo into a democracy capable of exercising its sovereignty and achieving self-rule.

One year ago — President Olympio of Togo was killed by military insurgents in front of the U.S. embassy in the African coastal nation's capital city of Lome.

PROTECTED BIBLES

NEW YORK (AP) — In the Middle Ages, Bibles were so expensive that they were chained to a wall or shelf in churches and monasteries to prevent theft. G. S. Wegener recounts in a new book, "6,000 Years of the Bible," published by Harper and Row.

4-H News

New Garden Jr. Farmers
A 1964 organizational meeting was held Monday at the New Garden Methodist Church by the New Garden Junior Farmers club. Several new members were among the 20 persons present.

Jim Bowman was elected president. Other officers are George Bowman, vice president; Richard Shultz, secretary; Bill Humphrey, treasurer; Don Humphrey, reporter; Ernie Aegerter, recreation leader; Jewell Hall, safety chairman; and Mike North, health chairman.

Advisers are Bob Batzli, Howard Batzli and Lloyd Mountz. Next meeting will be Feb. 3 at the church. David Bell will serve refreshments.

Try, Try Again

Betty Rudebeck was elected president of Try, Try Again 4-H Club when the group met recently.

Other officers are: Brenda Wilhelm, secretary; Cynthia Painter, secretary; Dianne Wilhelm, treasurer; Candy Hill, news reporter; Marsha Ferguson and Kathy Goerig, recreation leaders; Dena Holloway, song leader; and Debbie Hill, devotional leader.

The club will meet at 7 to-night at St. Jacob's Church near Lisbon.

Advisers are Mrs. Ed Wilhelm, Mrs. Kathryn Bricker and Miss Norma Schade.

Shellac Maintains Popularity As Finishing Material, Sealer

Easy to apply and fast drying, shellac has maintained its popularity over the years both as a final finishing material or as a sealer.

Because shellac is a clear finish, the result obtained with it depends to some degree on the smoothness of the surface to which it is applied. Unlike some of the pigmented coatings, clear finishes tend to magnify rather than hide defects. The first rule in the use of shellac, therefore, is to prepare the surface thoroughly, which generally means to sand it until it is absolutely smooth to the touch.

SHELLAC SHOULD BE thinned with denatured alcohol before using. There are various recommended combinations for different purposes, but we have found that a 50-50 mixture does the job in nearly all cases. The important thing is not to make the mistake of applying the shellac as it comes from the container. It usually is applied by brush and is put on with a flowing motion, but sometimes—especially with the initial coats—can be spread on with a clean, lintless cloth. There is no special knack to its application and even a beginner can get the hang of it the first time he handles it.

LIKE ALL CLEAR finishes, shellac is best applied in several thin coats rather than one or two thick coats. There are two kinds of shellac, orange and white. The white actually is what we generally know as clear and might be described as less orange than the orange type. Don't forget that—again like all clear finishes—shellac tends to darken wood slightly, so try it out on a piece of scrap wood to learn the effect.

Shellac is a natural, fast-drying finish, but will not fit into that category if it is applied during humid conditions. It should be used during dry weather and is not recommended for exterior work, although it occasionally is used as an undercoat in outdoor work where the final finish is resistant to the elements. As a general rule, though, shellac should not be used where it will be in contact with rain, sleet or snow.

A SECOND COAT OF shellac can be applied after an interval of a few hours. We have found, however, that it is best to wait a day or two between the next-to-the-last and the final coats. Shellac deteriorates with age. Don't buy it in large quantities. If you use some and have some left over, be sure the container is made airtight. And if you have it around more than six months, consider the possibility that it may not be as good as when you purchased it. Whether you still want to use it depends on how important the project is. If an especially beautiful finish is vital, buy a new container.

Does BLADDER IRRITATION MAKE YOU NERVOUS?

After 21, common kidney or bladder irritations affect twice as many women as men and may make you tense and nervous from too frequent, burning, or itching urination both day and night. Secondly, you may lose sleep and suffer from headaches, backache and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritation, CYSTEX usually brings fast, relaxing comfort by curbing irritating germs in strong, acid urine and by analgesic pain relief. Get CYSTEX at drugists. Feel better fast.

Here Are the Highlights of Report on Cigarette Smoking

WASHINGTON (AP) — Highlights of the report to the surgeon general of the United States by his Advisory Committee on Smoking and Health:

Cigarette smoking is a health hazard of sufficient importance to warrant appropriate remedial action.

Cigarette smoking is casually related to lung cancer in men; the magnitude of the effect of cigarette smoking far outweighs all other factors.

The data for women, though less extensive, point in the same direction.

In comparison with non-smokers, average male smokers of cigarettes have approximately a 9 to 10-fold risk of developing lung cancer and heavy smokers at least a 20-fold risk.

The risk of developing cancer of the lung for pipe smokers, cigar smokers, and pipe and cigar smokers is greater than for non-smokers, but much less than for cigarette smokers.

The causal relationship of the smoking of pipes to the development of cancer of the lip appears to be established.

Cigarette smoking is a significant factor in the causation of laryngeal cancer (cancer of the larynx, or "voice box") in the male.

Cigarette smoking is the most important of the causes of chronic bronchitis in the United States, and increases the risk of dying from chronic bronchitis.

Women who smoke during pregnancy tend to have babies of lower birth weight. It is not known whether this decrease in birth weight has any influence ence on the biological fitness of the newborn.

A relationship exists between pulmonary emphysema (lowered efficiency of the lungs because of tissue "hardening") and cigarette smoking, but it has not been established that the relationship is causal.

For the bulk of the population of the United States, the importance of cigarette smoking is a cause of chronic bronchopulmonary disease much greater than that of atmospheric pollution or occupational diseases.

Among males, cigarette smokers have a greater prevalence of breathlessness than non-smokers. But cigarette smoking does not appear to cause asthma.

The death rate for smokers of cigarettes only, who were smoking at the time of entry into the study, is about 70 per cent higher than that for non-smokers.

The death rates increase with the amount smoked. For groups of men smoking less than 10, 10 to 19, 20 to 39, and 40 cigarettes and over per day, the death rates are about 40 per cent, 70 per cent, 90 per cent, and 120 per cent higher than for non-smokers.

NEW YORK (AP) — J.B. Priestley, veteran English novelist-playwright, is turning his attention to theatrical science fiction.

With Fred Hoyle, an astronomer and writer, Priestley has penned "The Astronauts," and hopes for production next year. "The science is very good," says Priestley. "I don't know about the rest."

Every President Must Choose

Voters wouldn't need to mark their ballots at all next November if President Johnson could keep all the promises in his first State of the Union message.

He has promised to do everything good, nothing bad.

Eliminate poverty and reduce taxes. Take better care of everybody with fewer employees. Make the nation stronger with a smaller military budget. Settle the civil rights fight without quarreling with Southern reactionaries. Give medical insurance at minimum cost to everybody without taking anything out of the U.S. Treasury. Permit more foreign goods to be sold here and create more jobs for U.S. workers.

Our new President, one of the most knowledgeable men who ever moved into the White House, knows he is promising opposites. He is hopeful of bringing off a political trick many observers are betting he can perform — be both a conservator and a dispenser between now and next election day.

IF HE CAN CREATE the image of being a budget balancer, a penny-pincher and a fiscal hatchet man and also appear to be a New Dealer and a Fair Dealer, he will have done what every politician aspires to do — be all things to all men. If he could maintain such an illusion until next November, his victory would be a shoo-in. There wouldn't be anything to stop him. Voters would give him the presidency by popular acclamation.

The question is how long the illusion can be maintained.

Every president eventually must bid for favor as a spender or a saver. No president can be both.

There has been a series of spenders, starting with President Hoover, who was criticized by Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932 for being too open-handed. As president, however, Mr. Roosevelt outstripped all previous spenders.

Harry Truman might have been a saver had it not been for the Korean War. But Dwight D. Eisenhower, after promising to be a saver, became a spender, and John F. Kennedy, who never promised to be a saver, outdid himself as a spender.

President Johnson, politically, would like to be both. But as an administrator he must be one or the other.

THIS IS the weak point of his first State of the Union address. It revealed far more about the state of Lyndon B. Johnson than it revealed about the state of the Union.

Mr. Johnson is bidding for favor with both spenders and savers. He cannot please them both in the long run.

Whether the run will be long enough to carry him past next Nov. 3 is the key question in his presidential race against a Republican nominee who must run as a saver.

After all, what Republican nominee could go beyond President Johnson's promise to eliminate poverty itself?

Light Subject

Salem motorists are no different than others when it comes to violating one of the newest state traffic laws. It's the rule that requires operators of motor vehicles to have headlights burning between one-half hour after sunset to one-half hour before sunrise, or, in fact, at anytime when lights are needed to see objects 500 feet or more ahead.

P. S. Don't forget to dim those headlights when they hit the eyes of oncoming motorists. That, too, is an offense, although common courtesy ought to make it an automatic gesture.

Outstanding Coach

Earl Bruce, the Sandusky High School football coach who went to that city from Salem, is among the top contenders for the job of head football coach at Massillon Washington High School. As football fans know, Massillon Coach Leo Strang has been named grid mentor at Kent State University.

It goes without saying that the personable, talented Bruce is well-qualified. He was one of Salem High School's outstanding coaches and a man who fits well into any community. Salem was sorry to lose him but his many friends and admirers here were happy at the time of the Sandusky call because they realize it was a step upward. He has experienced nothing but success at Sandusky and if Massillon is looking for a man who has played football, understands the game completely, and also wins the confidence of his players and the fans, they will hire Earl Bruce. He's one of the best.

Snow Squawkers

By Truman Twill

I've never got used to snow squawkers. They're the featherbrains who get sore because all highways, streets, intersections and sidewalks aren't cleared of snow instantly.

They blast negligent public officials and their no-account employees for not removing all snowdrifts simultaneously on all roads.

They point accusing fingers at public authority for not having all downtown streets and all residential thoroughfares swept clean in a matter of hours.

They demand a full-dress investigation of somebody's criminal negligence if their cars slide into a ditch or a little snow gets inside their galoshes.

I've never got used to the squawkers. I quit trying to understand them long ago.

Some of them don't clean their own sidewalks. They wouldn't lift a finger to help another motorist in distress if it was their mother.

They are not infrequently public-banned characters who shovel sidewalk snow into the street where somebody else can worry about getting rid of it, then whimper because they cannot pull up to the curb.

IF IT'S slippery, they spin their wheels and blame someone else. They don't have so much as a bucket of sand to help themselves, but they expect road crews to sprinkle sand and salt on hundreds of miles of highways instantaneously.

They pay no attention to the condition of their car, but when cold weather catches them with a weak battery and beat-up plugs they weep and wail if the rescue squad doesn't show up in 15 minutes.

They know no more about operating an automobile in winter than an Eskimo knows about sponge-diving, yet they blame every mishap on circumstances beyond their control.

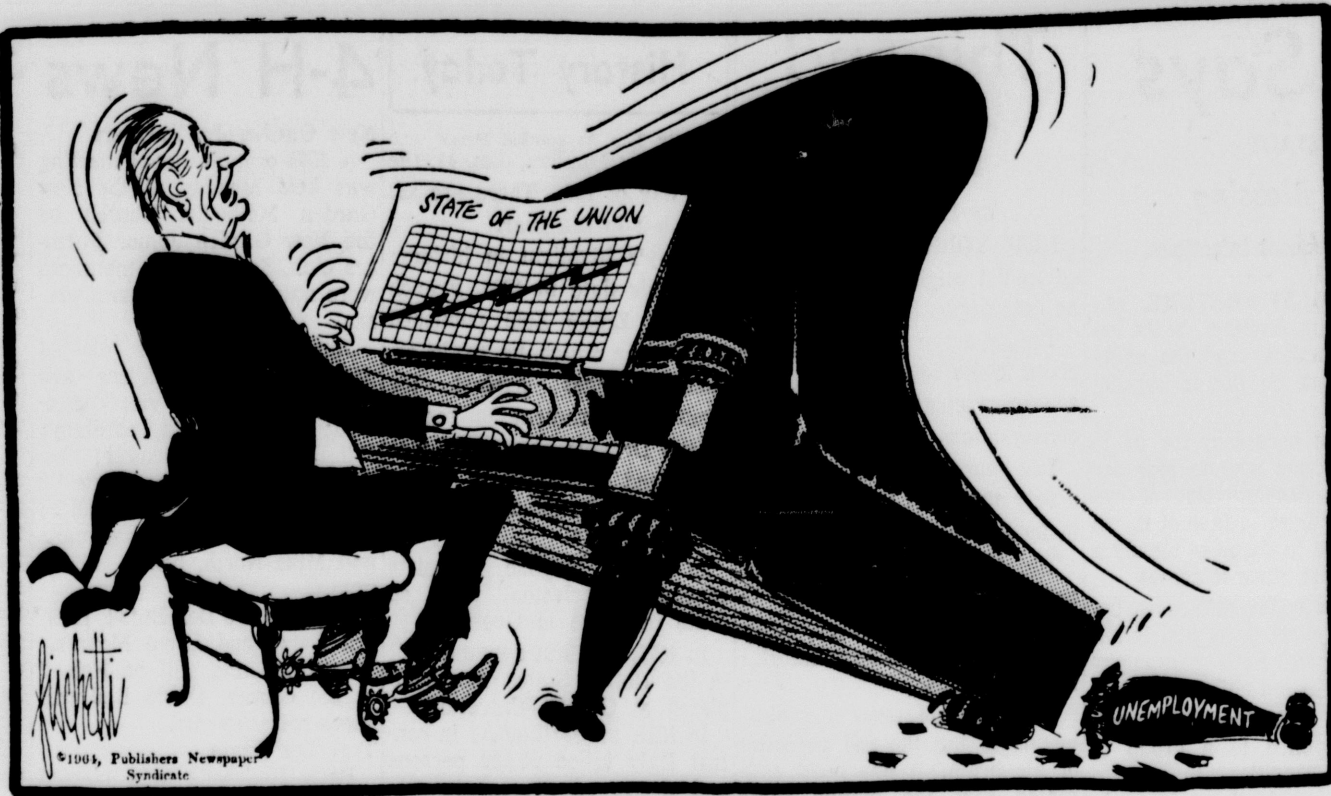

The more I think about snow squawkers, the less I think it would be worthwhile to try to understand them. They were born to squawk.

AND AS FAR as snow is concerned, it behoves us all to be philosophical about it—what it does to people. They can get as crazy from the snow as they get from the heat.

There's only one sensible way to cope with snow — live with it on its terms. With patience, it will go away. It can be taken away, in some situations. But not instantaneously.

Don't fight snow. Live with it. Nothing is so important as it's worth getting stuck for.

Let the snow squawkers squawk if it gives them pleasure. The rest of us will settle for being snowbound — quietly, resignedly, contentedly. And there won't be a peep out of us.

America the Beautiful

Red Carpet for Labor

By VICTOR RIESEL

No other President of the U.S., "not Franklin Roosevelt, not Harry Truman, not even John Kennedy," ever has dealt as confidentially with all of American labor's high command as Lyndon Johnson has in the first few weeks of his administration.

Victor Riesel

These were the words of one of this nation's most influential union chiefs shortly after he and 24 of his colleagues lunched for almost two hours with the President last Tuesday.

The union leader, who has worked with American presidents directly for three decades, added: "Roosevelt and Kennedy knew they had us pat and obligated to them and felt they did not have to go after us. But Johnson is treating us with greater esteem than we have ever received from the White House before."

What "excited" and "thrilled" labor's high command was the open manner with which Johnson had his own Cabinet members brief the AFL-CIO Executive Council and some of its advisors on many of the country's inner secrets.

HIGHLY CLASSIFIED material was reported by such men as Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk. The labor men heard the unpublished details of the comparative military strength of the U.S. and the U.S.S.R.

Typical of the intimacy of the steak bordelaise lunch was a moment during the briefing by Kermit Gordon, director of the bureau of the budget. Mr. Gordon stopped, suddenly realizing he was talking as though he were before the National Security Council.

"Mr. President, I don't know if you want me to go into more of these details," Mr. Gordon said to his chief.

"Yes, I certainly do," said President Johnson.

The most confidential details of the budget were then reported. So it was with Mr. McNamara who rattled off figures to which civilians are rarely privy. The revelations of American armament superiority over the Russians fascinated the group.

THE PRESIDENT had the red carpet out all the way. The Union high command to its delight, was asked to come into the White House by the "social entrance" — not the usual "business" or "official" gate. Promptly at 1 o'clock they found Mrs. Johnson awaiting them, explaining why the President would be 10 minutes late.

For a while it was all social—no business, just cocktails. When Mr. Johnson arrived "he was the master master-of-ceremonies," one of the labor leaders was later.

The President asked AFL-CIO President George Meany to sit on his right and Walter Reuther on his left. Reuther is an old friend who was supported Mr. Johnson in many campaigns, including the President's 1948 race for the Senate when he won by 87 votes.

AT THE SAME table were Herman Kenin, head of the musicians' federation, Maurice Hutcheson, the carpenters' leader, Secretary of Labor Wirtz and one of labor's important, albeit anonymous, intellectuals, Lane Kirkland, chief assistant to Mr. Meany. Except for Reuther and Meany, guests drew their seats by lot from a bowl.

President Johnson was at his folksy best. He autographed menus; explained how, as a school teacher, he had put a student over his knee and spanked him, and talked confidentially with Reuther and Meany. When he introduced his senior Cabinet men, he said:

"When you were here last, I said this house is always open to you because I want to know what you think. But today is different. Now I want you to know what we are thinking."

He read two pages of his State of the Union speech draft. He said he would push for heavy expenditures along the lines of labor's program. But he said he did not want a "nuclear WPA."

EXPLAINING why he and his Cabinet were being so frank and revealing, the President said to the union chiefs "you represent millions of people."

He indicated that he realized full well that they led the biggest, best organized bloc of people in the land.

Then he implied that he would try to hold on to the John Kennedy staff, many of whom, such as Pierre Salinger, were in the room. He introduced Ted Sorensen by saying:

"My daddy used to tell me it was not good to have information unless you have judgment. The man here who has both information and judgment is Ted Sorensen."

There was much more. But these words seemed to set the direction of the administration in the months to come.

Taft's Moment of Truth

U.S. Senate in 1938.

In the primary he was battling popular Supreme Court Justice Arthur H. Day for the GOP nomination. All but a handful of Ohio's Republican county chairmen were in the Day camp because they figured his name stood the best chance of unseating Democratic Sen. Robert J. Bulkley of Cleveland.

The odds didn't faze Mr. Taft. With virtually no party backing he went to work quietly organizing his forces, speaking to small but important groups, county by county, and dumped Justice Day by more than 71,000 votes.

But the battle was only half won. Sen. Bulkley, who had strong support from President Franklin D. Roosevelt, appeared to be unbeatable. It was just Roosevelt had won his first re-election by an Electoral College landslide in which he captured 26 of the 48 states.

In a move later credited with turning the tide, Republican Taft challenged Democrat Bulkley to a series of six public debates. Sen. Bulkley's acceptance gave his opponent a chance to display his remarkable ability for storing information in a huge mental catalogue.

The results are history. Ohioans gave Taft a comfortable 170,000-vote cushion in the general election.

But the senator never had an easy road to office.

In 1944, he carried only 27,000 votes over Democrat William G. Pickrel.

In 1950 he scored a thumping victory over Joseph T. Ferguson, but only after a rigorous campaign in which organized labor dug deep into its war chest in a concerted effort to unseat the man who co-authored the Taft-Hartley Act.

Pressure Increases

Bob Jr., who though he doesn't carry his father's middle initial, may not be facing the same kind of odds this year, but the pressure is increasing.

And if the magic of his father's name has helped him up the political ladder, it also has given him a mighty challenge to impart a little magic of his own.

The moment of political truth may be at hand for the senator's son.

Pope Paul VI

VATICAN CITY

In the animated first six months of his pontificate, Pope Paul VI has successfully projected the image of a modern-minded Pontiff faithful to the heritage of Pope John and capable of shattering Vatican tradition.

In the public mind, Paul is the Pope who reconvened the Council with minimal delay and made history with his trip to the Holy Land.

On the surface, he has lived up to the hope that he would be a liberal, modern Pope. Vatican progressives, however, profess they are somewhat puzzled by the man and the style of his pontificate.

THE FIRST point the progressives make is that Pope Paul is an extremely careful man. It's said that he once told a friend in Milan that if he were in the real estate business he would never buy a house that did not have a back door.

Thus, the Pope can appear to be taking an interest in contemporary problems without really committing himself. One example cited here is his Christmas message, in which he deplored hunger as one of the world's greatest evils but categorically condemned birth control.

His remarks on birth control reflected the thinking of the church's conservative elements, and there was no reference to the work of Leo Joseph Cardinal Suenens and others who are trying to arrive at some formula of family limitation acceptable to the Church.

Another example is the Pope's remarks to the French episcopate in an audience during the Council. After praising the drive and elan of the French hierarchy and the brilliance of such theologians as the Cominican Yves Congar, the Pope went on to say that the French clergy's efforts were sometimes "damaging" to the church and that the Bishops should watch their clergy more closely.

A second point the progressives make is that to Pope Paul "words are deeds—once he has spoken he feels he has functioned." Thus, he told the Curia it needed to be reformed, but nothing has been heard on that subject since.

One progressive ecclesiastic called the Pope "Messianic" and in his deep and sincere conviction that he has been chosen to help safeguard the peace of the world.

He emphasizes the fact that he is the successor of Peter, the first Pope, which Pope John played down.

He also can be paternalistic, as when he addressed an audience of bishops, priests, and laymen, telling the bishops and priests "You are the church," and then asking the laymen, almost as an afterthought, "you too are part of the church."

HIS WILLINGNESS to travel is explained by this conception of his personal role.

"He feels that for something to be achieved, his presence is necessary." Thus, well informed sources say, there are many more trips in sight. There is Bombay in late November, and perhaps a trip to Africa before that. There probably is the United States after the elections and South America, where the position of the church is critical.

Aside from the more obvious motives of the Pope's trip to Jerusalem—the desire to pray at the Holy Land sites, the possible rapprochement with the Orthodox—there is feeling that Pope Paul is making up for the disappointment caused when the Council proposals on religious freedom and absolving the Jews for special blame for Christ's death were shelved.

The trip to Palestine, which captured the world's imagination, helps offset the disappointing balance sheet of the Council's second session.

A—Three days. Toll: 990 U.S. Marines were killed and 2,311 wounded.

'Ann Landers Answers

Dear Ann Landers: It happened for the third time in three years and now I'm completely fed up with this phony friend.

My Christmas gift from her arrived late, as usual. As always, it had a price tag tucked underneath — but in a place where I was sure to see it. And, as in the past, the price tag was about triple what the thing was worth. She had taken it off something else.

What really burned me up is that on the outside of the package, as big as life, there appeared a sticker which said: "Sender's Own." This means the gift was not purchased in the store. It's something she had at home and brought to the store for gift wrapping and delivery.

I hate to let her think she is getting away with this same tawdry stunt year after year. What shall I do? — NOT SO DUMB.

Dear Not So: Don't do anything. You've dissipated most of your anger by writing to me. When you see this letter in print the notion that perhaps she is seeing it, too, will take care of the rest.

Bait for Date

Dear Ann: This is not the usual run-of-the-mill plea from a high school girl who wants to know how to be popular. Believe me, Ann, popularity is the farthest thing from my mind. All I want is an honest to goodness live date before the semester ends.

I'm no beauty but I'm no beast either. My grades are good and I have a pleasant personality. We live in a nice house, my dad is an attorney and we have no nutty relatives locked up in the attic. So why can't I get even one fellow to ask me out?

Well, the football players need help with Spanish they call on me. When the basketball players need a book review I get the nod. But dates—nothing. The fellows all tell me I'm a great gal and a good kid. But when it comes to asking me out it's like I never existed. Why?—ZIPPER.

Dear Zipper: I may sound like a broken record—but here we go again.

1. Be friendly but don't try to be one of the boys. If a fellow wants to be with the boys he'll go where the boys are.

2. Ask him questions about himself. Listen to his replies and then ask more questions.

3. Be cheerful and fun to be with. All people enjoy pleasant company and boys ARE people.

If you go to work on these three points I guarantee that business will improve.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Through The Years

10 YEARS AGO — Councilman R. M. Linder attacked Council's rules of order at last night's meeting.

L. H. Colley was re-elected president of the First National Bank at the stockholders' annual meeting last night.

25 YEARS AGO — Rolland V. Paxson was installed as Noble Grand at a meeting of the Amity Lodge of the IOOF last night.

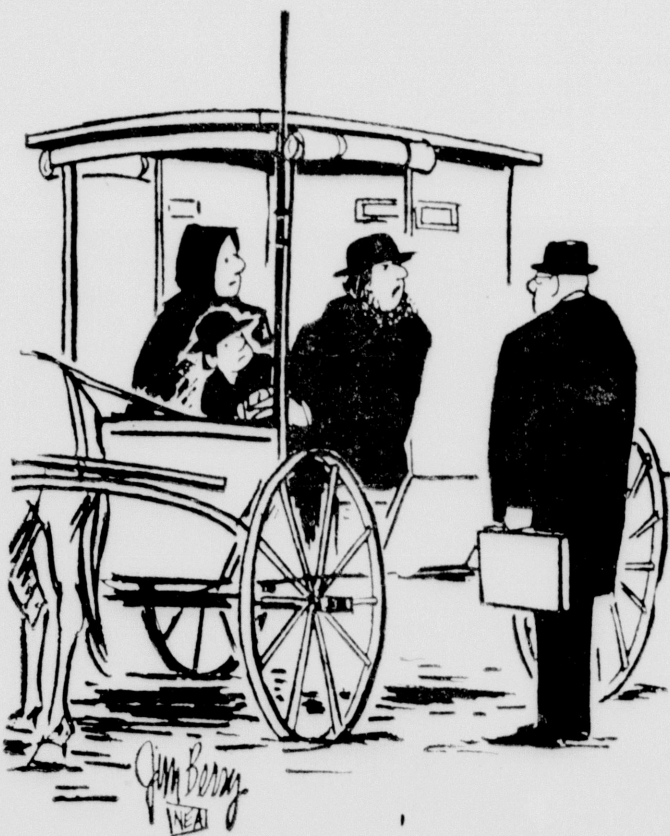

Thomas J. Keane, national director of senior scouting of the Boy Scouts of America, will speak to Salem scout leaders as well as others in the county tomorrow at Lisbon.

35 YEARS AGO — Over 100 Odd Fellows of District 27 met in Salem last night at the hall on Broadway.

E. W. Bliss Co. has gone on a 24-hour working day according to Lloyd Jones, manager.

Landers Discusses:

Teen-Agers And SEX...

Ann Landers, nationally famous counselor for teen-agers, is author of the nation's most widely read human relations column and her new book is as interesting, informative and useful to parents as to teen-agers. This is the first of 10 articles condensed from the book, "Ann Landers Talks to Teen-Agers About Sex." Copyright, 1964, by Prentice-Hall, Inc.

CHAPTER 1 — ON CLOUD 9 OR BEHIND THE 8-BALL

By ANN LANDERS

I am the shoulder to cry on. I sit in the watchbird seat and it's not difficult to understand why.

It's easier to level when you don't have to look a person in the eye and recite the agonizing details of an episode you're ashamed of — particularly if that episode involves a triumph of human chemistry over sound judgment.

For this reason I've been cut in on what goes on behind closed doors and drawn drapes, in the back seats of family cars, on sandy beaches, in wooded lanes — wherever boy meets girl.

Glorious teen-age years! Laughter, fun, popularity, dancing barefoot at home, exchanging I.D. bracelets, rings, look-alike sweaters hours of love talk on the telephone, romance under the stars. Pure bliss.

WHO SAY, SO? Pre-teens, post-teens (with faulty memories), everyone — everyone except the teens themselves. They know better. And I know better, too.

Mountain of mail from the most reliable source of all — teen-agers themselves — tell a different story. A staggering number of teens who appear to be cool, calm and confident, in simple truth, are anxious, frightened and guilt-ridden. They are pulled and hauled by biological urges on the one hand and fear of the consequences on the other.

First, let's define our terms. Who is a teen-ager? You may as well ask, "Who is man?" or, "What is life?"

Webster's Third New International Dictionary, which bulks, 2,274 pages and cost $3.5 million to produce, offers this definition: "Teen-ager: a person between 14 and 19 years of age, inclusive." Big deal!

IF WEBSTER'S can't come up with a better definition, then what I've long suspected must be true. There is no such animal as a typical teen-ager. He can't be defined because he doesn't exist. Yet we scarcely can pick up a magazine or a newspaper which doesn't have an article on "What Teen-Agers Want" or "What Teen-Agers Need" or — worst of all — "The Moral Decay of the Youth of America."

Adults who talk about teen-agers in unvarnished generalities do all our kids an injustice. Teen-agers are not lima beans. They are human beings who come in assorted sizes, shapes and colors. Each has his own personality, his own sense of personal worth and his own moral and ethical value system. The difference between age 13 and age 19 can be 100.

I'VE RECEIVED letters from 14-year-old girls who have had so many sexual experiences they can't recall the names of all their partners. In the same batch of mail I might receive half a dozen letters from 16- and 17-year-olds who want to know if it's possible to get pregnant through clothing.

Although there is no typical teen, my mail tells me an astonishing number of high school kids share common problems. They are either on Cloud 9 or behind the 8-Ball about 11 times a week.

They alternately love and hate their parents. They want more freedom on the one hand, yet on the other they desperately hope Mom and Dad won't let them do every fool thing they beg to do.

THEY STRUGGLE with acne, overweight and underweight, and the sweet and frightening mystery of awakening biological drives. They're bedeviled by pesky brothers and sisters, wail over impossible math courses, and hunger to be popular.

They die when they are left out. They want to be exactly like everybody else — right down to the skinny pants, the beat-up sneakers, the bulky sweaters or whatever happens to be "in"

at the moment.

Alexander Graham Bell is their patron saint. To the teen-ager the telephone is vastly more than an instrument of communication. It is an emotional outlet. The tinkle of this magical gadget can send a 15-year-old into ecstasy. A silent phone can plunge a teen-ager into the cellars of despair.

One thing is certain. After 12 and up to 20, life is not easy.

'Kooky' Generation

Are teen-agers today wilder than their parents were at a comparable age — or are they just getting more public attention?

I am asked this question frequently, particularly by parents.

They usually put it this way: "Are our children worse than we were when we were their age?"

I don't like the word "worse." The teen-agers of today are DIFFERENT from teen-agers of 30 years ago. My answer is not based on memory. It is based on statistics.

Anyone who has been working with young people since World War II will tell you that more teen-agers are in trouble today — more serious trouble, and at an earlier age — than ever before. And it isn't just that there are MORE TEEN-AGERS.

THE PERCENTAGE of adolescents in trouble is up.

What are the reasons? Have today's teen-agers invented a new kind of mischief?

No, they have not. They are doing, essentially, the same things their parents did — but they are doing them sooner. And this is where the trouble comes in. Since World War II, the timetable of sex activity among teen-agers has been set ahead by approximately three years.

When I was a teen-ager (back in the Stone Age, of course) 13-year-old girls didn't wear nail polish, nylons, strapless evening gowns and lipstick. A 14-year-old boy who smoked usually did it behind the barn.

There wasn't the social pressure to "grow up." Our mothers didn't worry so much about whether or not we were popular. Back in the 1930s, mothers were worrying about other things — like how to feed their families.

OF COURSE we were interested in sex. (An interest in sex has been fairly high for some thousands of years.) But my generation was more self-conscious about it.

In our day, 16-year-olds hugged and kissed and called it necking. Today most 16-year-olds go beyond hugging and kissing, and they call it "making out."

It is substantially more difficult to be a wholesome teen-ager today, and, to some extent, the reasons are economic.

The "under-20" group spends $9.5 billion a year without adult supervision. Teens are stimulated by advertisers to buy more — and to want more. Advertising suggests that the way to be popular is to rev up the sex appeal.

Auto's Influence

More than any single factor in the past 30 years, the automobile has exerted the strongest influence on teen-age behavior. Millions of teen-agers own cars — and those who don't own a car can often get four wheels on half an hour's notice.

A car today is more than transportation. It is a status symbol and a passport to freedom. Six gallons of gas can propel a couple of teen-agers into another world. A car can be a portable bedroom — "even with those crummy bucket seats," as one teen wrote.

Today's automobile has all the comforts of home, plus privacy. The radio provides mood music. The glove compartment can accommodate a few cans of beer or a bottle of booze. If it's cold outside, you can turn on the heater. If it's hot outside, you can turn on the air conditioner.

NATURE'S WONDERS can be glorious and stimulating. Safe in a car, you can watch the stars twinkle in the heavens, listen to the howling wind or the gentle patter of the rain.

With a setup like this, it's not surprising that half the kids who write and say they are in serious trouble admit it happened in a car.

Am I suggesting teen-agers should not be allowed to have cars I am not. That would be absurd. Cars are built into 20th-century life. We can't turn back the clock or the calendar, nor should we wish to.

I AM strongly suggesting, however, that teen-agers should recognize that a car presents multiple temptations which can add up to deep trouble. Even the most disciplined boy or girl is battling against brutal odds when he parks in the moonlight — "just to talk."

A kooky generation No. A troubled generation, struggling not only with the problems of growing up but with the added pressures of the space age — a generation forced to live in a world it never made. But what new generation ever made the world it came into.

Gongaware-Facchini Vows Are Exchanged In Alliance

Before an altar decorated with vases of red carnations and white mums Miss Rebecca Kay Gongaware, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Gongaware of S. Linden Ave., Alliance, was married at 11:30 a.m. Saturday to James R. Facchini, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall B. Facchini of S. Arch Ave., Alliance, in the sanctuary of St. Joseph's Church.

Rev. Adelbert J. Cook officiated at the ceremony as wedding music was played by Mrs. Eugene Kolakowski. Miss Mary Ann Kolakowski was soloist.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white silk peau de soie designed with long sleeves, boat neckline and full bell-shaped skirt accented in back with double bow and white satin rose, and falling to a full chapel train. Alencon lace and seed pearl detailed the neckline, waistline, one side of the skirt and hemline. A matching pearl crown topped with peau de soie rose held her waist length veil of silk illusion, and she carried a single full-blown American Beauty rose.

Miss Kay Chervenak was maid of honor and attendants were Miss Marsha Facchini, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Donald Goven, Mrs. John Hartzell and Mrs. Richard Williams. Michael Cantwell was best man.

A wedding luncheon for 100 guests was held at Christopher Columbus hall and a reception was held at the American Legion hall Saturday night. Guests were registered by Mrs. Wendell Moore. Mrs. George D. Edwards, cousin of the bride, served.

The bride is a secretary for the Morgan Engineering Co. and Mr. Facchini is a carpenter for Kintz Construction Co.

Mrs. James R. Facchini

moon trip through the New England States. Upon their return they will reside at 2144 Miller Ave., Alliance.

OES Lodge Adopts Theme For the Year

"Faith Through Prayer" was announced as the theme for the year when Mrs. Frank Ackelson presided at the meeting of the Salem Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, in the Masonic Temple.

Nosegays of violets on a drape of pastel blue decorated the front of the worthy matron's pedestal lighted with flickering electric candles. Decorations were by Mrs. Karl Kandsen, Mrs. Wendell Church, Mrs. Nina Jones and Mrs. Shearer.

Mrs. Fred Hall and Mrs. Arthur Nicholas were named to the calling committee for January, and Mrs. Marion DeBow and Mrs. Charles Oertel co-chairmen for the lunch committee for February.

Following the meeting luncheon was served by Mrs. Church and Mrs. Grace Allmon and their committee.

The next stated meeting of the group will be Feb. 3.

Those from Salem who attended the school of instruction, Tuesday at Alliance, were Mrs. Arthur Johnston, Mrs. Church, Mrs. Ackelson, Mrs. Jones, Miss Elaine Green-anger, Mrs. Mary Yates, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stockton, Mrs. John Kehrer, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jenkins, Mrs. C. H. Waldron, Mrs. H. C. Milner, Mrs. D. W. Lewis, Mrs. Harry Sherwood, Mrs. Henry Lieder and Mrs. Virgil Edgerton, who is deputy grand matron of district 13.

Mrs. Lois Hall of East Liverpool presided at the business session, and the following district officers were elected: President, Mrs. A. M. Simpson of East Palestine; vice-president, Mrs. Elizabeth Wallace of Canton; secretary, Mrs. Carola McCullough of Salineville, and treasurer, Bruce Pelley of Hanoverton.

Mt. Union Receives $5,000 DuPont Grant

ALLIANCE — Mount Union College has been awarded a $5,000 grant to help maintain and improve the excellence of teaching by the DuPont Co. in its 1964 program of aid to education.

The grant consists of $2,500 for chemistry teaching and $2,500 for teaching of other subjects that contribute importantly to the education of scientists and engineers.

It is the ninth consecutive year Mount Union has received a DuPont grant.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruise —

Dear Heloise: This is so simple that I hate to mention it:

Regarding chrome legs in the bathroom, kitchen, or any place. . . the maid in the hotel where I was staying told me this:

Remove the soap from the soiled soap tray and wipe the tray with a damp cloth or sponge and before rinsing the cloth wipe all of the chrome in sight. After it is all wiped, go back over it with a dry bath towel or wash rag and just watch it shine!

Nothing else does so well, believe me.

Thanks to the residue of the soap in our soap trays and the ingenuity of this maid . . . a miracle seems to have happened. It makes housework fun.

And you, Heloise, make all problems fun!

R. M. T.

Now, aren't you something? This puts a glaze on it like nobody's business, provided you shine it with a clean dry rag.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: No one likes a pillow fight better than we used to, but . . . not in the middle of the night, at our age now.

If anyone has trouble keeping pillowcases on foam rubber pillows just try putting a gripper snap on the opening of the case and rest peacefully. . .

THE HUNTERS.

DEAR HELOISE: To cut a little girl's bangs evenly, put a strip of cellophane tape where you want to cut the bangs. Now just snip the bangs evenly with your scissors and it's never too short.

READER.

Dear Readers: Everybody says to use cellophane tape. However, I cut four little girls' bangs recently, and being out of cellophane tape, I used masking tape. We found this far better. Here's how:

Dampen the comb slightly. Shake it a little bit to get out excess moisture. We do not want the hair too wet.

Stand in front of the child and place your piece of masking tape straight across the bangs, slightly pressing it at each temple.

Take your scissors and snip above the masking tape. The hair will stick to the tape, thus avoiding getting any in little Jane's eyes.

Quick, easy and perfect every time.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: For those who have stalled garbage disposals — my son-in-law, who is a graduate engineer — takes a broom handle or tire iron and puts in the disposal with the motor turned off and forces the grinder around clockwise several times.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: When I have a burned aluminum pot I put it back on my gas burner. (on simmer) and let it cool until all the particles of burned food dry up and burn even more. Then all I have to do is hit it with a metal fork and it all comes off.

COOK IN A FAMOUS RESTAURANT

Many cooks have written us about this method. Lots of them put burned pots and pans back in the oven or on the stove.

Never put a hot pot directly in cold water. It might warp it (guess how I know?) Let it cool first, then scour.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: To keep salt from clogging in the container, never shake directly over hot food. The steam rising from the foods tends to dampen the contents of the container and the next time it will not pour or shake freely. Measure or shake the contents into a spoon, then add to your cooking foods.

Also, if the spices and seasonings are stored too near the stove the heating or cooling off of the cans will eventually cause enough sweating to clog up the insides.

NO ONE who knows her will quarrel with the description of Mrs. Sybil Leek of Hampshire, England, as "bewitching." Mrs. Leek, 41-year-old mother of two schoolboys, is Britain's Number One witch. A few generations ago she would have been burned at the stake, but now she practices witchcraft openly. She lives in an old beamed cottage and casts her spells with a cast-iron cauldron. She claims thousands of people today are turning to ancient forms of witchcraft for help and guidance.

With her medium, a jackdaw, Mrs. Leek walks for solace.

Salem Loses Heartbreaker 86-72 to Tall Spartans

Quakers Drop 7th Contest

Local Unit Faces Niles There Friday

By MARK W. MILLER
News Sports Editor

In its best showing of the season, Salem lost a heartbreaker 86-74 to a tall Boardman squad at the winner's gymnasium Saturday night.

"We are beginning to jell, I was pleased with our performance against their superior Boardman height," said coach John Cabas.

"Our kids are gaining confidence, and we are making fewer mistakes each time we play," he commented.

Salem gave up the ball only 16 times on turnovers, while the Spartans were making 28 mistakes.

IT WAS THE FIRST time in 10 years that a Boardman team had beaten a Cabas coached Salem squad. He also had a 5-0 mark over the Spartans, while guiding Columbiana back in the 1940s.

The Red and Black had one of its best shooting nights, connecting on 26 of 66 field goal attempts for 39.3 per cent. The Spartans made 43 per cent of their shots, hitting on 31 of 72 goals tried.

It was a close game going into the fourth frame, when Boardman spurted nine points to take a 72-61 lead.

The Quakers matched baskets with the taller Spartans, almost five inches to the man, and held a 17-15 lead at the end of the initial period.

BOARDMAN, TAKING advantage of its height, retaliated to take a 65-59 margin at half time. The Spartans held a 65-59 lead at the end of the third stanza.

For the Spartans, it was their seventh victory in nine starts, while he Red and Black dropped their seventh in eight tries. Boardman managed to control the boards, pulling down 52 rebounds compared to 36 for the Quakers.

During the first half, Salem led eight times, Boardman nine, and 12 other times the action was tied.

With 1:10 to go in the second session Jim Geller, 6-4 junior, put the Spartans ahead to stay with a push shot.

A BUCKET BY Jim Soller, 6-2 junior, and a pair of foul shots made by Rick Macaulay, 6-7 junior, gave Boardman a 40-34 bulge.

With 4:48 to go in the fourth frame Rick Gregg fouled out for the Quakers. George Begalla, a teammate, collected his fifth personal with 3:14 remaining.

At one period during the tit, Boardman had a lineup in with a height advantage of 6-3, 6-4, 6-7, 6-4, 6-2. Salem's tallest starter Saturday was 6-0.

Geller took scoring honors for Boardman with 29 points. Soller cleared the boards of 20 rebounds, finished with 17.

Begalla led the Salem attack with 20 markers. Gregg chipped in with 19. Jim Lantz collected 15 and Washington finished with 12.

Salem will travel to Niles Friday and will entertain Dayton Roth Saturday.

Lions Lead Tri-County League With 5-0 Mark

Lisbon Drops 1st To Poland 55-43

Jim Allen, Roger Dyer and Nestor Rotz shared 47 points as Poland handed Lisbon its first loss of the season, a 55-43 setback at the Blue Devils home floor Saturday night.

Coach Howard Kitzmiller's aggregation took undisputed first place in Tri-County League standings with a 5-0 mark. For the season the Bulldogs are 8-1. Canfield handed Poland its only loss 62-59 the second game of the campaign.

Coach Gary Pike's Lisbon squad had an eight-game win streak snapped. The Blue Devils are 4-1 in loop action. The two schools will meet again on Feb. 8.

Poland raced to a 20-9 lead in the initial period, increased its margin to 23-15 at half time and held a 40-33 spread at the end of the third quarter.

Rotz took scoring honors for Poland with 18 points. Allen chipped in with 16 and Dyer had 13. Dave Rose paced Lisbon with 16 markers. Larry Weber had 13.

Lisbon junior varsity salvaged part of the win bill by trimming Poland reserves 28-24. In loop action this weekend, Lisbon travels to East Palestine Friday, while Poland entertains Louisville. Saturday, the Blue Devils battle Minerva at home, and Poland hits the road for Leetonia.

Louisville Edges Palestine 49-44

In a thrilling Tri-County League clash, Louisville outlasted East Palestine for a 49-44 triumph at the Bulldogs' gymnasium Saturday.

It was the sixth victory in nine starts for the Leopards, while the Bulldogs dropped their seventh in nine outings, including the last three in a row.

East Palestine took a 14-12 lead in the first period, but Louisville retaliated to take a 28-26 margin at half time and held a 37-36 lead at the end of the third stanza.

Foul shooting by Mike Katich late in the final frame enabled Louisville to win.

From the field the Leopards hit on 37 per cent of their shots, canning 15 of 41 field goal attempts. At the foul line the winners tossed in 19 of 29 for 66 per cent.

The Bulldogs attempted 46 shots and swished the nets 16 times for 34 per cent from the charity circle. East Palestine cashed in on 12 of 18 free throws for 67 per cent.

Bob Gladioux led the Louisville attack with 16 points. Bill Minor netted 13 and Katich made 11. Bob Dickey paced the losers with 15 markers. Steve Hirt canned 13.

Louisville reserves posted a 44-33 decision over East Palestine junior varsity.

West Branch Nips Canfield 59-57 In Overtime

Phil Sharp tossed in the winning basket with 1:06 to go in overtime to give West Branch a 59-57 triumph over Canfield at the Cardinals field house Saturday night.

The two schools will meet again Jan. 31 at the Warriors new gymnasium. It was the fifth victory in 10 starts for Coach Joe Tucker and his squad.

The Warriors took an 11-8 lead in the initial period and held a 22-21 margin at intermission. Canfield bounced back to take a 40-33 lead at the end of the third session.

Down 46-35 with 6:09 to go in the fourth frame, the Warriors rallied and in the final seconds of regulation play, Jim Boyle made a tip-in shot to tie the score 45-45.

Sharp put West Branch ahead with a push shot 40 seconds into the extra session. A bucket by Jim Cashion tied the contest for the Cardinals 57-57 at 1:24.

A shot by Sharp from the key-hole wrapped it up, although Cashion missed a foul shot and then two field goal attempts in the final 17 seconds in a thrilling finish.

From the field, West Branch nets 24 times for 41.3 per cent, tried 58 shots and swished the At the foul line the Warriors tossed in 11 of 19 for 57.8 per cent.

Canfield attempted 78 field goals and connected only 18 times for a meager 23 per cent. The Cardinals made 17 of 35 free throws from the foul line for 48.5 per cent.

Jim Peach took scoring honors with 22 points for the Warriors with 20.

Gary Eckenrode led the Cardinals with 16 markers. Cashion netted 13 and Bud Geaser finished with 12.

In the preliminary fray, Canfield reserves knocked off the West Branch underclassmen 53-32.

West Branch will travel to Southern Local Friday. The Warriors will entertain Youngstown Ursuline Saturday.

Wall Garners San Diego Golf Crown

By BOB MYERS

Associated Press Sports Writer SAN DIEGO, Calif. AP)—Art Wall Jr., back in the tournament golf spotlight after his victory in the $30,000 San Diego Open, led the professional contingent Monday to one of his favorite shooting grounds.

That would be the Bing Crosby National this weekend, an event in which Wall tied for second a year ago and won in his last really big year in the golfing wars, 1959, when the famed Masters came his way.

The personable, rather retiring Wall returned to national attention Sunday when he polished off the opposition with a carefully-carved par 70, a 72-hole score of 274, six shots under par for the attractive, rolling par 35-35-70 Rancho Bernardo Country Club course.

Tony Lema finished with a rush—30 on the backside—and tied with Bob Rosburg at 276 for second. Rosburg had a 70.

The windup in bright, sunny weather found several erstwhile threats finishing in arrears.

National Open Champion Julius Boros had a 74 for 282; Gene Littler 73 for 280; British Open Champion Bob Charles 66 for 277, and Al Geiberger 71 for 279.

Arnold Palmer, finally shaking off a flu bug which had harassed him all week, rallied with a 66 for 281. It was worth $275 for Palmer, an amount he usually budgets for caddy fees.

Wall confided he told his caddy before setting out, "I hope I can shoot a 70. I think I can win." The score and the prophecy panned out.

This was Arthur Jonathon Wall Jr.'s first major victory since the 1960 Canadian Open.

Columbiana Trims Lions' Unit 68-57

SPTS — COLUMBIANA

All five starters scored in double figures as Columbiana trimmed Minerva 68-57 in a Tri-County League clash at the Lions' den Saturday night.

The victory left the Clippers and Lions with 3-2 records in the loop standings.

Coach Rich Berryman's aggregation bounced back from a 63-58 loss to Lisbon Friday to chalk up its seventh win in nine starts.

The loss suffered by the Lions was their fifth in nine contests.

COLUMBIANA TOOK a 9-8 lead in the initial period, increased its margin to 28-21 by intermission and held a 52-34 lead at the end of the third stanza.

From the field the Clippers canned 45 per cent of their shots, compared to 33 for the losers.

Bill Burbick took scoring honors for the Clippers with 15 points. Fred Gosney netted 14. Rick Spiker and Duane Spiker 13 apiece and Jim Ward 11.

Denny Clapper paced Minerva with 14 markers. Dan Baxter collected 12.

In the preliminary tilt, Columbiana reserves dropped a 71-51 decision to Minerva junior varsity.

Friday's card finds the Clippers home to Leetonia, and the Lions will be entertaining Sebring. Columbiana travels to Louisville Saturday and Minerva is at Lisbon.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

A word from THERON at the Country Store

I made one New Years resolution and already I have broken it. I promised myself I was going to do a better job of keeping the Salem News supplied with these articles.

Last night I was up almost all night writing for the other paper. Sometimes I can sit down and write a lot of them with no trouble, other times they don't come easy.

If you haven't been down to the Country Store recently why don't you come down this week.
